

Proclamation

WHEREAS: the success of our American experiment in self-government depends upon the unique character of the American spirit -- a spirit that is nurtured, taught by example, and lived by experience within the vital framework of the American family; and

WHEREAS: it is in our families that we learn, develop and practice those attitudes and concepts of right and wrong, of fairness, of charity, and love of country. Neither schools nor the institutions of government can ever replace the American family in the development of responsible and caring individuals; and

WHEREAS: since we believe that every child has the right to grow up in a secure, loving family and that this experience lays the foundation for a happy, productive adulthood, we commend the growing numbers of Americans who are building families through adoption. By this means, thousands of children of all ages, backgrounds and with various special needs have been able to reap the benefits of permanent family membership; and

WHEREAS: it is within that family circle that each child learns the most important of life's lessons: from parent, love and respect; from grandparents and other elder relatives, wisdom and tolerance. These family experiences nurture our sense of community with others; and

WHEREAS: in deprivation and abundance, in turmoil and tranquility, Americans have reached out for their destiny from the constant sanctuary of family life; and

WHEREAS: in recognition of this fundamental role of the family in the development and continued vitality of our Nation, the Congress has requested that the week of Thanksgiving in 1976 be designated as National Family Week;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Wendell R. Anderson, Governor of the State of Minnesota, do hereby designate the week beginning November 21, 1976 as in Minnesota, and urge all citizens to observe this week by sharing with their families and friends an expression of the bonds between them and a common acknowledgement that through the extended relationships of the family, we will improve the quality of our lives and increase our Nation's store of peace, progress, happiness, and individual liberty.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of Minnesota to be affixed at the State Capitol this sixteenth day of November in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred seventy-six and of the State the one hundred eighteenth.
