

Proclamation

WHEREAS: Minnesota's history is rich with aviation pioneers and heroes; and

WHEREAS: Minnesota is nationally known for its excellent aviation system; and

WHEREAS: Minnesota is the home of high technology and aerospace industries; and

WHEREAS: The Montgolfier balloon lifted men from the earth's surface; Wilbur and Orville Wright achieved sustained powered flight; Charles Lindberg opened the skies to transatlantic flight; and Alan Shepard's entry into space and Neil Armstrong's footprint on the moon have enabled all Americans to share in the wonder of man's travel into the earth's galaxy; and

WHEREAS: Minnesota will host the first aeronautical event of the Bicentennial Celebration of Man's First Flight as a commemoration of all the heroic personal and technical achievements of conquering the air, and thereby expanding the boundaries of civilization;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Rudy Perpich, Governor of the State of Minnesota, do hereby proclaim January, 1983 as the kick-off month for the
