Mr. Murray, from the committee of conference on H. F. No. 246, reported that the Senate recede from their amendments to said bill, being items 15, 16, 23, 25 and 26.

Report adopted.

So the bill was finally passed.

The following communication was received from the Governor:

\[\text{STATE OF MINNESOTA, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,} \]
\[\text{Saint Paul, March 1, 1866.} \]

\textit{Hon. Thomas H. Armstrong, President of the Senate:}

\text{Sir:—I have the honor to return to the Senate}

A bill entitled “an act to empower Robert H. Jefferson, administrator of the estate of Robert Emmett Jefferson, deceased, to sell, grant and convey the real estate,” without my approval. I have been requested to do so by the author of the bill, and the parties for whose benefit it was intended.

Respectfully,

Wm. R. Marshall,
Governor of Minnesota.

The veto message was taken up, when the Senate reconsidered their vote whereby they passed S. F. No. 92, A bill for an act empowering Robert H. Jefferson, as administrator of the estate of Robert Emmett Jefferson, deceased, to convey real estate.

When the question being, shall the bill pass, the veto of the Governor to the contrary notwithstanding,

And the yeas and nays being ordered, there were yeas none, and nays 16, as follows:

Those who voted in the negative were—

Messrs. Baxter, Brown, Butters, Buell, Langley, McKusick, Miller, Murray, Otis, Pillsbury, Pettit, Randolph, Richardson, Shillock, Simpson and Thacher.

So the bill did not pass.

The following message was received from the House of Representatives:

\textit{Mr. President:—I have to announce that the House of Representatives has adopted the report of the committee of conference on H. F. No. 246, A bill for an act appropriating money for certain purposes.}

Andrew C. Dunn,
Chief Clerk House of Representatives.

On motion of Mr. Richardson, the Senate adjourned.
