2007 ANNUAL REPORT

Reflections on 2007

To the Citizens of Minnesota:

2007 was a monumental year for the Soldiers, Airmen and families of the Minnesota National Guard. The nation will look back on 2007 with admiration and appreciation for our armed forces in general and for the Minnesota National Guard in particular.

The 2,600 Soldiers comprising the 1st Brigade Combat Team's "Red Bulls" gallantly supported the President's "troop surge" strategy in Iraq. On January 10, 2007, the President announced a four-month extension of the 1st Brigade. As a result, the "Red Bulls" became the longest serving unit – of any military component, Active, Guard, or Reserve – in Operation Iraqi Freedom. Other brave Minnesota Guard Soldiers and Airmen served throughout Iraq, providing heavy-lift capabilities with Chinook helicopters, security and support forces on the ground and – in the case of the 148th Fighter Wing – dominance of the skies.

Elsewhere, talented Airmen of the 133rd Airlift Wing used precision airdrop technology to supply ground forces throughout the mountainous regions of Afghanistan. Other Minnesota Army Guard Soldiers trained the Afghan National Army and provided critical support to the U.S. military. The Minnesota Guard deployed a battalion to Kosovo to perform peacekeeping operations in the United Nations protectorate. In sum, the Minnesota Guard deployed a total of 2,355 troops to 14 countries in 2007.

Minnesota faced challenges at home in 2007 that exemplified the value of today's Citizen-Soldiers and -Airmen. Within an hour of the tragic collapse of the Interstate 35W bridge, a Minnesota Army National Guard medical evacuation helicopter was on the scene, prepared to assist local first responders. Soldiers responded to save lives and protect property when devastating floods engulfed southeast Minnesota. In northern Minnesota, raging fires were quelled by highly-trained aviators and crews. The Minnesota National Guard executed other specialized missions in 2007 as well, such as assisting local authorities in recovering a downed civilian aircraft and providing relief to travelers during blizzards.

As our valiant Citizen-Soldiers and -Airmen return from combat, we have taken the national spotlight with our pioneering reintegration program, Beyond the Yellow Ribbon. More than 3,000 troops and their families have benefited from this series of candid engagements designed to educate troops, families and communities on the issues surrounding returning combat veterans. Beyond the Yellow Ribbon is being codified by the U.S. Congress as the national model, and we can be proud that our communities, as well as our federal, state and local partners embrace the concept of an orchestrated plan to welcome home our heroes.

As I reflect upon 2007, I offer the humblest appreciation to the citizens of our great state. I see daily public reminders of those Minnesota Guardsmen who died in a combat zone during 2007 – Staff Sgt. James Wosika, Sgt. Maj. Mike Mettillie and Staff Sgt. Greg Riewer. I am confident that Minnesota remembers their sacrifice and will do so into perpetuity.

Sincerely,

Larry W. Shellito

Joint National Guard Units

The Joint Force Headquarters is an operational military unit with an integrated Army and Air staff responsible for the command and control of the Minnesota National Guard.

In the event of a large multi-service military operation in Minnesota, such as the 2008 Republican National Convention, the Joint Force Headquarters has the capability to provide the leadership and staff to execute any assigned mission.

Camp Ripley is The Warrior's Choice for training. In 2007, more than 251,000 military and 64,000 civilian personnel trained in the renowned facilities at Camp Ripley. The installation continued to expand its capabilities in 2007 by establishing a new UH-60 Blackhawk simulator, Improvised Explosive Device (IED) training lanes, an Unmanned Aerial System landing strip and hosted the Wildland Fire Crew Academy.

Improvements are expected to continue in 2008 with the Collective Training Facility range enhancements to be completed in July.

CAMP RIPLEY

The Minnesota National Guard's capability to provide Homeland Defense was dramatically enhanced in 2007 with the establishment of a highly-trained Chemical, Biological, Radiological/Nuclear and Explosive Enhanced Response Force Package (CERF-P).

The CERF-P augments the Minnesota National Guard's established homeland defense assets: a Rapid Reaction Force, a Quick Reaction Force, a 24-hour Watch Office, the 55th Civil Support Team, the 148th Fighter Wing's Explosive Ordnance Disposal Unit and the Counterdrug Team.

HOMELAND SECURITY

In 2007, the two Minnesota Air National Guard Wings flew more than 1,500 combat sorties.

Air National Guard Units

The Duluth-based 148th Fighter Wing distinguished itself in 2007, deploying 302 Airmen to 12 different countries. The F-16s of the 148th Fighter Wing logged 2,385 combat hours in the skies above Iraq, while simultaneously performing Air Sovereignty, Air Expeditionary Force and Expeditionary Combat Support missions throughout the world. In addition to the "Bulldogs" stellar performance in combat, the 148th Fighter Wing performed 251 crash and rescue responses at the Duluth International Airport, and responded to 28 Explosive Ordnance Disposal incidents at the request of local law enforcement.

In 2008, the 148th Fighter Wing will continue to seek out opportunities to acquire more advanced aircraft and develop improvements in the Maintenance Support Facility.

The 133rd Airlift Wing, located at the Minneapolis-St. Paul International Airport, is comprised of 1,280 people dedicated to supporting the needs of the State of Minnesota and the nation. During 2007 the Wing deployed more than 350 Airmen on Air Expeditionary and Combat Support missions to 14 different countries. Using the latest airdrop technology - the Joint Precision Airdrop System - more than a thousand combat sorties provided supplies and equipment to ground forces.

In 2008, the 133rd Airlift Wing will continue to provide tactical airlift of troops, cargo and medical patients during military operations in Europe, Central and South America and Southwest Asia.

Army National Guard Units

The 34th Infantry Division, headquartered in Rosemount, provides oversight for more than 8,200 Soldiers in Minnesota and has training responsibility of Army National Guard units in three other states.

In 2007, 34th Infantry Division troops participated in combat operations in Iraq and Afghanistan, as well as training exercises in Egypt, Canada and Croatia. Under the command of Maj. Gen. Rick Nash, the 34th "Red Bull" Infantry Division is poised to continue to be recognized as the best division-sized unit in the Army National Guard in 2008.

2,600 members of the Bloomington-based 1st Brigade Combat Team returned in July and August from the longest combat tour of any military unit – Active, Guard, or Reserve – in Operation Iraqi Freedom. In 2007, the Soldiers of the 1st Brigade Combat Team distinguished themselves in Iraq by traveling more than 2.2 million convoy miles, disarming more than 400 explosive devices, building seven water purification plants and constructing 90 miles of roadway in the Dhi Qar region. In 2008, the returning Soldiers of the 1st Brigade are focused on reintegrating back into civilian life through the pioneering Beyond the Yellow Ribbon program which is currently being codified by U.S. Congress as the national model.

1ST BRIGADE COMBAT TEAM

Soldiers of the 34th Combat Aviation Brigade supported multiple missions with excellence in 2007. B Co., 2nd Battalion, 211th General Support Aviation Battalion safely returned home after flying CH-47 Chinooks on 5,400 combat missions in Iraq. The 2nd Battalion, 147th Assault Helicopter Regiment deployed to Iraq with UH-60 Blackhawks and is expected home in summer of 2008. Minnesotans relied on the 34th Combat Aviation Brigade to assist in suppressing fires, providing emergency transportation during floods, providing heavy-lift capabilities at the I-35W bridge collapse and assisting with recovery of a downed aircraft. In 2008, the 34th Combat Aviation Brigade is preparing to deploy troops in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom.

Army National Guard Units

The 347th Regional Support Group is an Army National Guard Brigade headquartered in Roseville that provides combatant commanders and the State of Minnesota specialized capabilities with its military police, medical, personnel, band, transportation and finance units. In 2007, the 347th Regional Support Group deployed finance and personnel specialists overseas. In addition, the 114th Transportation Company was established in Chisholm.

In 2008, the 347th Regional Support Group will remain active by participating in drills and exercises throughout Minnesota.

The Minneapolis-based 84th Troop Command provides essential field artillery, chemical and engineering capabilities for both federal and state missions. In 2007, the 849th and the 851st Engineer Companies deployed in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom.

In Minnesota, the 84th Troop Command established, trained and validated a new Chemical, Biological, Radiological, Nuclear and High Yield Explosive (CBRNE) Enhanced Response Force Package (CERF-P). This new CERF-P will continue to train with Minnesota law enforcement and first responders in 2008.

Minnesota National Guard History

The Minnesota National Guard takes great pride in being a vibrant participant in shaping Minnesota's history. Since the days before statehood, the National Guard embraced whatever role history would unveil: protector of settlers, guardian of freedom, provider of relief, peacekeeper to nations, or homeland defender.

- The Territorial Militia ushered in the Minnesota National Guard in 1850. Charged with protecting the interests of settlers, the Minnesota Pioneer Guards were formed in 1856. Minnesota's frontier was ably protected by these militiamen. In fact, local Guard units served as the only line of defense during the Dakota (Sioux) War of 1862.

- The Minnesota National Guard distinguished itself during the Civil War. The "First Minnesota" is recognized as the first regiment to volunteer troops to serve for the Union cause. They became a legend for their gallant charge at Gettysburg on July 2, 1863.

- As the United States transformed into a first-rate military power, so too did the Minnesota National Guard. Troops served in the Spanish-American War, Mexican Border Patrol and World War I. The addition of the 109th Aerial Observation Squadron brought Minnesota the first recognized flying unit in the National Guard in 1921.

- World War II spotlighted the Minnesota National Guard's excellence and commitment to victory. The annals of the Minnesota Guard's combat lineage in World War II are legendary: the 34th "Red Bull" Infantry Division in North Africa and Italy; the 175th Field Artillery in Italy; the 194th Tank Battalion at Bataan; 136th Infantry at New Guinea and Luzon; and the 109th Observation Squadron in Europe.

"Red Bull" Soldiers fire into Cassino, Italy from the north edge of town on Feb. 24, 1944.

- War in Asia and Europe during the latter half of the 20th Century provided other venues for the Minnesota National Guard to answer the Nation's call: Korea; Berlin; Vietnam; the Persian Gulf; and the Balkans. This capable and versatile force performed admirably, all the while responding to state activations such as fires, floods, tornadoes, missing-person searches and homeland defense.

1/34th BCT Soldiers were responsible for safeguarding logistics bases and routes in Iraq during 2007.

www.MinnesotaNationalGuard.org/history

The attacks of 9/11 brought an unprecedented need for military forces, and the Minnesota National Guard has again responded to the call to arms to fight the Global War on Terror. More than 2,300 Soldiers and Airmen deployed in support of combat operations in 2007; 2,600 "Red Bulls" of the 1st of the 34th Brigade Combat Team (1/34th BCT) returned from a 22-month deployment in July and August.

Airmen display the U.S. and Air Force colors prior to a Minnesota Twins baseball game.

As the U.S. Air Force celebrated its 60th Anniversary as a recognized military branch in 2007, Minnesota reflected with pride at the contributions of our Citizen-Airmen. On January 17, 1921, Minnesota's 109th Observation Squadron was the first National Guard unit to receive federal recognition following World War I. Minnesota Air National Guard units have served in every major conflict since its earliest days, including World War II, Korea, the Berlin Airlift, Vietnam, the Persian Gulf War, Operation Enduring Freedom and Operation Iraqi Freedom.

1st Brigade Combat Team

After 22 months away from their families, the Soldiers of the 1/34th Brigade Combat Team returned home. They were deployed to Iraq in March 2006 to conduct theater security in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom.

- Longest deployed unit in Operation Iraqi Freedom (16 months in a combat zone).
- Drove more than 4,500 convoy escort missions.
- Drove more than 2.2 million convoy miles.
- Discovered more than four hundred IEDs before they were detonated.
- Provided a Military Training Team for an Iraqi Battalion in Al Anbar.
- Received more than a million hits on RedBullWeb.com.
- Completed 107 reconstruction projects worth $11 million.
- Built or upgraded seven water purification plants, providing clean water for tens of thousands of Iraqi citizens.
- Constructed 90 miles of roads in Dhi Qar.
- Cleared 310 miles of roads using an innovative “Adopt a Highway” program to disrupt IED concealment.
- According to a 1/34th BCT survey, potable water satisfaction was increased by 22% and electricity satisfaction grew by 40% in Dhi Qar.
- Produced 28 documentaries (more than 23 hours) on reconstruction efforts for Iraqi television stations.

Minnesota National Guard units B Co., 2nd Combined Arms Battalion, 136th Infantry and B Co., 1st Combined Arms Battalion, 194th Armor were directly involved in “The Awakening” that took place in Al Anbar Province.

Working with village sheiks and Iraqi Emergency Response Units, Minnesota National Guard and Marine Corps units built alliances with the Iraqis in Al Anbar and empowered them to eliminate Al Qaeda insurgency in their villages.

The movement, which became identified by the sheiks as “The Awakening,” was due in part to the Iraqis’ frustration with murderous acts by Al Qaeda in their region.

Expecting Greatness

Gov. Tim Pawlenty pins the Silver Star medal on Staff Sgt. Chad Malmberg for his heroic actions during combat operations in Iraq.

For the first time since World War II, a Minnesota National Guard Soldier was awarded the Silver Star medal. Staff Sgt. Chad Malmberg of 2nd Battalion, 135th Infantry was presented the Silver Star medal for valor in combat by Minnesota National Guard Commander-In-Chief Governor Tim Pawlenty and 34th Infantry Division Commanding General Maj. Gen. Rick Erlandson on Sept. 22.

Malmberg, a Minnesota State University Mankato student, distinguished himself by his heroic actions during an insurgent ambush on his convoy. While departing Baghdad International Airport, his troops were ambushed by a roadside bomb and then by insurgent machine-gun fire and rocket propelled grenades. Staff Sgt. Malmberg engaged 40 insurgents with small arms weapons and an AT-4 Rocket Launcher. Putting himself in the line of fire, he coordinated clearing debris from the road so that he could lead his convoy safely back to base with no casualties sustained by any of his Soldiers.

“There is no doubt about it, he’s a hero” said Gov. Tim Pawlenty.

In 2007, more than 4,700 Minnesota National Guard Soldiers and Airmen either mobilized or returned from deployment in support of federal war-time missions. Combat service has enhanced the capabilities of our force, and Minnesota can expect great things from these troops.

First All-Female Flight

Christmas 2007 will not soon be forgotten by the talented aviators and crews of the St. Paul-based 2nd Battalion, 147th Assault Helicopter Regiment. Flying from Logistics Support Area Anaconda in Balad, Iraq, the National Guard’s first two helicopter combat mission planned and executed entirely by a female crew successfully delivered cargo and passengers throughout battlefield landing zones.

This all-female crew successfully planned and executed a combat mission on Christmas Day 2007.

Air Guard Bronze Stars

Five members of the Minnesota Air National Guard were awarded Bronze Star medals in 2007. The recipients were; Col. Greg Haase, 455th Expeditionary Operations Group Deputy Commander, Bagram Airfield, Afghanistan; Col. Frank H. Stokes, 455th Expeditionary Maintenance Group Commander, Bagram Airfield, Afghanistan; Col. John H. Spencer, Jr., Deputy Commander, 332nd Expeditionary Operations Group, Balad Air Base, Iraq; Chief Master Sgt. Michael D. Layman, 455th Expeditionary Maintenance Group Chief Enlisted Manager, Bagram Airfield, Afghanistan; and Tech. Sgt. Scott T. Castleman, Explosive Ordnance Disposal Craftsman at the 506th Expeditionary Civil Engineer Squadron, 332nd Air Expeditionary Wing, Kirkuk Regional Air Base, Iraq.

Four Members of the 148th Fighter Wing received the Bronze Star Medal for distinguished service while deployed in 2007.

Duty. Honor. Country.

While commanding his unit in Iraq, Capt. Scott Rohweder became one of only seven commissioned officers in the National Guard to be named winner of the “General Douglas MacArthur Leadership Award.” Rohweder, a 34-year-old husband and father of two from Princeton, Minn., humbly said most of the accolades for the award should go not to him, but to a much larger group of people—his Soldiers.

Capt. Scott Rohweder was selected as one of the best company grade leaders in the U.S. Army in 2007.

People

The Minnesota National Guard consists of Soldiers and Airmen who give their best daily whether they are on missions stateside or serving overseas. These servicemembers are recognized by their peers, their community, their state and their nation.

- The Minnesota National Guard grew by 1,000 Soldiers last year, the equivalent of a combat battalion.
- Ranking only 21st in state population, Minnesota ranks 5th in military strength.
- The 133rd Airlift Wing achieved a strength level of 102%, compared to a national Air National Guard average of 96%.
- The Air Force selected Capt. Mike Donat to participate in the “High Flight” program, in which Air Force future leaders explore both contemporary and future issues.
- The 148th Fighter Wing achieved a record personnel end strength of more than 105%, the seventh year in a row over 100%.
- Maintaining a personnel retention rate of 93.5 %, the 148th Fighter Wing ranks as the #1 Wing for retention in the Air National Guard.
- The Minnesota Army National Guard Recruiting & Retention Command finished fiscal year 2007 second in the nation.
- The state’s top recruiter, Sgt. 1st Class Brad Bond, was responsible for 42 enlistments in fiscal year 2007 and was named the Army National Guard “Recruiter of the Year” at a Dec. 8 ceremony in Washington, D.C.
- More than 500 backpacks filled with school supplies were distributed to children of deployed or recently returned parents.

Newly appointed 148th Fighter Wing Command Chief, Chief Master Sgt. Jodi Stauber addresses the Wing.

Chief Master Sgt. Jodi L. Stauber is the first woman ever to be appointed to 148th Fighter Wing Command Chief, the highest enlisted position at the Duluth-based Air Guard unit. She now serves as the primary advisor to the Wing Commander on all enlisted issues.

Distinguishing herself in her previous role as Personnel Superintendent of the 148th Fighter Wing Military Personnel Flight, Chief Master Sgt. Stauber played a key role in a variety of missions for both state active duty and service abroad.

Her dedication to the advancement of the 148th Fighter Wing and the Airmen who make it successful is a direct reflection of her dual role as a citizen and an Airman.

“Command Chief isn’t a job you can do well for the wrong reasons. It has to be from the heart. You have to care for people,” said Stauber.

“First and foremost, I am a wife and mother,” said Stauber. “With that comes a spirit of taking care of others. Command Chief isn’t a job you can do well for the wrong reasons. It has to be from the heart. You have to take care of people.”

Tough Questions

The Minnesota National Guard faced difficult decisions in 2007 and responded to some tough questions from our Soldiers, Airmen and families.

Q: Why was the notification of the 1/34th Brigade Combat Team's extension so uncoordinated?

A: Even though there was public speculation related to an extension, neither the Minnesota National Guard nor the 1/34th BCT in Iraq had advance notice of the 125-day "troop surge" extension.

The Adjutant General received notification from the National Guard Bureau on Wednesday, January 10th at 7:30 p.m., with authorization to release the information at 9 p.m. Maj. Gen. Shellito informed family readiness group leaders of the extension at 9 p.m. and released the notification to the public through the media shortly thereafter. While most Soldiers in Iraq found out about their extension from families, the media or from conversation with key leaders in Minnesota, the Army Headquarters in Iraq did not officially notify the 1/34th BCT until Monday, Jan. 15.

Brigade Commander, Col. David Elicerio, announced receipt of official notification to the unit on Tuesday, Jan 16 and followed up with a press conference on Wednesday, Jan. 17. His assessment was straight-forward: "Leadership within the Department of Defense did 'goof this one up.'"

Col. Elicerio addresses Minnesota media via live video satellite on Jan. 17.

Q: With only half of its assigned equipment available, is the Minnesota Guard ready to fight wars abroad and assist with disasters at home?

A: Minnesota's National Guard has about half of its equipment still in the state for responding to all manner of natural or man-made disasters.

conducting federal combat operations overseas.

The Minnesota Guard has 57 of its 153 tractor trailers for carrying heavy equipment to disaster areas, 571 of its 1,200 Humvees, six of its 22 helicopters and 371 of its 698 tactical vehicles for transporting people and supplies.

With more than 13,600 Soldiers and Airmen assigned to 63 armories statewide, the Minnesota Guard can simultaneously assist state and local authorities while

Maj. Gen. Larry Shellito and Sgt. Benjamin Hatton testify before Congress at a House Veterans' Affairs subcommittee hearing.

Q: Why didn't all returning Soldiers receive the same education benefits?

A: Upon return to the U.S., the Minnesota National Guard learned that orders for 1,162 1/34th BCT Soldiers were written for 729 days or fewer. Had they been written for 730 days, one day more, the Soldiers would receive additional Chapter 30 GI Bill benefits to assist in paying for school.

"Roger that, Congressman," said Sgt. Hatton.

On Oct. 18, Minnesota Adjutant General Maj. Gen. Larry Shellito and Sgt. Ben Hatton testified before a Veterans Affairs subcommittee to address the issue.

Since the issue was brought before federal officials, more than 97% of the returning troops have had their orders corrected and will receive full Chapter 30 GI Bill benefits.

Q: Have the continued wars in Iraq and Afghanistan negatively affected Minnesota National Guard Recruiting?

A: No. The citizens of Minnesota continue to boldly step forward in record numbers to serve their state and their nation.

Accomplishments

The nation took notice in 2007 as Minnesota National Guard Soldiers and Airmen achieved unprecedented national recognition.

"And the Emmy® goes to..."

The 'Board of Governors Award' Emmy, which recognizes excellence in broadcaster-community partnerships, was presented to the Minnesota National Guard at the 7th Annual Regional Emmy Awards Gala on Saturday, Oct. 20 in Minneapolis.

The Minnesota National Guard, along with Fox Sports Net North, the Minnesota Twins, Twin Cities

Fox affiliate KMSP-TV, KFAN Radio and Charter Communications, received the Emmy for collaborative efforts resulting in the production of Freedom Week and Operation Home Base, a unique, week-long series of radio and television broadcasts that aired during the Major League Baseball season.

Best Band in the Army.

The 34th Infantry Division "Red Bull" Band was awarded the "Col. George S. Howard Citation of Musical Excellence" for Military Concert Bands April 21 at the Rosemount Armory.

The award was presented to the band by Minnesota National Guard Adjutant General Maj. Gen. Larry Shellito during the ceremony.

"We are going to do our best to honor veterans through our music, regardless the venue," said Skaar.

The committee of the John Phillip Sousa Foundation judged recordings of three concert performances that were submitted by bands from all around the country.

"This was a goal we have strived for," said Band Leader Chief Warrant Officer Trygve Skaar. "And through the process we have grown, and that's the real reward of it. By getting the award, it just proves to me the excellence of the people in the unit, the commitment they have to one another and the commitment they have to represent all the Citizen-Soldiers from Minnesota and to honor all past veterans."

Federal Missions

When directed by the President, the Minnesota National Guard provides combatant commanders with mission-tailored Soldiers, Airmen and units to support U.S. involvement in worldwide armed conflict and contingency operations, who are also capable of performing full-spectrum homeland security missions.

IRAQ

- 2,600 Soldiers from the 1st Brigade Combat Team of the 34th Infantry Division had their tours extended by four months; as a result, the “Red Bulls” served longer in a combat zone than any other military unit in Operation Iraqi Freedom.
- More than 300 Airmen of the 148th Fighter Wing deployed to Balad Airbase and flew 581 combat sorties.
- 117 members of the Minnesota Army National Guard’s 849th Mobility Augmentation Company deployed to Iraq.
- 290 Soldiers from the 2nd Battalion, 147th Assault Helicopter Regiment are currently conducting combat missions with UH-60 Blackhawk helicopters.
- The 851st Vertical Engineering Company deployed in support of the 769th Engineering Battalion of Louisiana.
- 51 Soldiers from the Roseville-based 347th Personnel Services Detachment have been deployed and will support in and out-processing personnel actions for servicemembers at military bases in Kuwait and Qatar.

State Missions

National Guard Soldiers and Airmen work on a simulated casualty during a Chemical, Biological, Radiological, Nuclear and High Yield Explosive training exercise as part of CERF-P certification. Minnesota's new CERF-P can provide immediate response capabilities, including searching damaged buildings, rescuing trapped people, providing decontamination, performing medical triage and initial treatment to stabilize patients for transport to medical facilities.

The Minnesota National Guard possesses a unique capability to assist local law enforcement in the event of a homeland security incident, a natural disaster or other emergencies. At the direction of the Governor, the Minnesota National Guard can commit community-based people, equipment and facilities such as:

- Joint Force Headquarters: Provides command and control of all National Guard forces in the state. At the direction of the President, can act as a joint-services headquarters for all military forces operating in Minnesota during specially-designated operations.
- 55th Civil Support Team: Assesses hazards, advises civil authorities and facilitates military support during emergencies and incidents of suspected weapons of mass destruction.
- CERF-P (Chemical, Biological, Radioactive, Nuclear or High Yield Explosive Enhanced Response Force Package): Provides immediate response capability at the request of local authorities.
- Quick Reaction Force/Rapid Reaction Force: Provides the first ready force capable of delivering a company-sized unit within hours of being requested by local law enforcement.
- Explosive Ordnance Disposal: Assists northeast Minnesota and northwest Wisconsin law enforcement agencies with the detection, diagnosis and disposal of hazardous devices.
- Counterdrug Team: Uses specialized equipment and National Guard facilities to assist law enforcement agencies and community-based organizations in response to the changing drug threat.
- Critical Infrastructure Assessment Team: Provides the capability to uniformly and consistently evaluate the vulnerabilities of physical security and information security assets.

HOMELAND SECURITY

The Minnesota Air and Army National Guard responded to the collapse of the I-35W Bridge in Minneapolis on Aug. 1 and continued to support with transportation of diving equipment to aid in the search and rescue operations.

- A UH-60 Blackhawk medevac helicopter was on-site immediately following the collapse. The helicopter was at the disposal of the incident commander to provide hoist and personnel rescue assistance.
- Airmen from the 133rd Airlift Wing received and off-loaded diving and rescue equipment, then transported 22 Navy rescue personnel and 90,000 lbs. of gear to and from the Mississippi River staging area near the bridge collapse.

DISASTER RESPONSE

State Missions

The Minnesota National Guard was a critical component to assisting in the emergency flash floods in Winona, Houston and Fillmore Counties in late Aug. More than 17 inches of rain fell within a few hours, causing widespread damage and an immediate threat to the citizens of southeast Minnesota.

- Within three hours of notification, a Rapid Response Force was assembled and on-site, checking on residents door-to-door, providing medical assistance, directing traffic, conducting security and delivering supplies.
- Helicopters flew through marginal weather to provide emergency transportation and aerial observation.
- Minnesota National Guard mobile communications platforms supported civilian and military responders in the devastated town of Rushford with power, satellite internet and radio communications.
- Small unit leaders adapted to changing mission needs as the incident evolved from search and rescue, to security, to route reconnaissance, to victim search and recovery, to mission termination and final turnover to the local authorities.

Minnesota National Guard troops were called from all parts of the state to respond to the floods in Aug. 2007 in southeast Minn.

FLOODS

Soldiers of the 34th Combat Aviation Brigade deployed a UH-60 Blackhawk to Todd County to recover a downed aircraft, which had crashed in a marsh Oct. 24.

- St. Paul-based C Co., 2nd Battalion, 211th General Support Aviation Battalion, worked with the Todd County Sheriff's Department to recover a crashed plane from a bog near Browerville, Minn.
- The Blackhawk crew began its mission by surveying the scene from the air, then landing and meeting with the incident commander and recovery workers from Todd County, Morrison County, Browerville Fire and Rescue, as well as fellow Minnesota National Guardsmen from Camp Ripley.
- The Blackhawk hoisted the entire plane free from the bog to allow officials to begin their investigation.

SEARCH, RESCUE & RECOVERY

The Minnesota National Guard was involved in supporting efforts to suppress the Ham Lake Fire – the fourth largest fire in Minnesota history. The 148th Fighter Wing deployed a P-19 Crash/Rescue vehicle to Grand Marais to permit a fleet of heavy water-dropping helicopters to operate closer to the fire.

Operations

More than 2,300 Minnesota Army National Guard Soldiers and Airmen were mobilized in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom, Operation Enduring Freedom and Kosovo in 2007.

- The 133rd Airlift Wing performed more than 1,000 combat sorties, with 20 utilizing the newest technology for airdrop – the Joint Precision Airdrop System – in order to re-supply ground forces.
- The 133rd Airlift Wing maintained a deployed aircraft “mission capable” rate in excess of 90%. By comparison the Air Force average for C-130s was 71.5% in 2007.
- The 133rd Airlift Wing performed more than 1,000 combat sorties, with 20 utilizing the newest technology for airdrop – the Joint Precision Airdrop System – in order to re-supply ground forces.
- Minnesota Army National Guard units exceeded Army requirements during the mobilization process. Minnesota units deployed with 103% of authorized strength to active duty mobilization stations; upon arrival, only 4% of troops left training, far fewer than the national average of 7% for Army National Guard units.
- The Minnesota National Guard Drug Demand Reduction programs supported federal, state and local prevention programs by using positive role models to present a drug-free life style. In 2007, we reached more than 15,000 Minnesota youth with our programs.
- 2nd Combined Arms Battalion, 136th Infantry searched more than 331,500 vehicles and 15,000 local national personnel at Entry Check Points at Camp Fallujah, Iraq with no injuries or deaths occurring on the base due to Improvised Explosive Devices, smuggled explosives or suicide bombers.
- The 148th Fighter Wing successfully completed an Operational Readiness Inspection. An Airman ties down cargo in preparation for the evaluation exercise.
- The 34th Infantry Division headquarters participated in Operation Bright Star, a multi-national exercise conducted in Egypt, the Mediterranean Sea and Suffolk, Virginia.

Sgt. Scott Stroud on a mission in Iraq during his tour in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom.

Sgt. Scott Stroud has relatives who fought on both sides in the Civil War, another relative who “hit the beach” in the Battle of Normandy during World War II and an uncle who served three tours as an infantryman in Vietnam.

He is one of few Soldiers of the 1/34th BCT to earn two Purple Hearts during the recent combat tour. Since 1917, the Purple Heart has been awarded in the name of the President of the United States to servicemembers who have been wounded or killed in action against an enemy of the United States.

In 2002, at the age of 39, Stroud volunteered to rejoin the Guard after the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks. He had been honorably discharged from the Army Reserve in 1987. “This time I did it for whatever help I could do,” said Stroud of his reason for rejoining the Guard.

When he earned his first Purple Heart on May 15 he was driving the lead Humvee of a patrol when his vehicle hit a roadside bomb. Stroud escaped with cuts on his legs from shrapnel and a badly sprained right foot.

“All of sudden it was just BOOM! ...complete blackness,” said Stroud.

Just two months later, on June 23, Stroud’s Humvee was hit by another bomb while returning to the camp from a patrol. Stroud suffered ruptured and bleeding eardrums and 10 pieces of shrapnel in his cheek.

Technology and Logistics

The Minnesota National Guard's logistics community provided support during 2007, handling multiple deployments, redeployments and transformations simultaneously. Meanwhile, the Minnesota National Guard continues to be a national leader in technological systems.

- The national Chief of Staff Supply Excellence award went to the Mankato-based Headquarters, 2nd Battalion, 135th Infantry and the Rochester-based B Co., 2nd Battalion, 135th Infantry.
- The Minnesota National Guard's logistics community redeployed more than 4,000 Soldiers and 1,000 vehicles from mobilizations and training events.

Mechanics prepare a UH-60 Blackhawk helicopter for a mission.

- Transported more than 10,000 Soldiers to training destinations in 2007.
- Minnesota National Guard performed pre-deployment maintenance on 95 tracked vehicles, 357 wheeled vehicles and fielded 2,049 Single Channel Ground and Airborne Radio Systems.
- The Counterdrug program issued law enforcement agencies $996,574 in excess military weaponry, vehicles and other equipment.
- Conducted 98 separate Morale Welfare and Recreation video teleconference events in which 347 deployed Soldiers were connected to their families in Minnesota from Iraq, Afghanistan and Kuwait.
- Facilitated a video teleconference between Minnesota and Iraq so a deployed father could see his daughter graduate high school.
- Executed two separate video teleconferences from the Metrodome to Iraq and Afghanistan during Minnesota Twins games so that 24 family members could speak with their deployed Soldiers.
- 35,783 Soldiers used 15 Distance Learning classrooms and labs for formal military education.
- Utilized more than 18,316 hours of video conferencing to save costs and enhance productivity.
- Hosted four video teleconference weddings between Minnesota and Iraq, and connected three video teleconferences between Minnesota and Iraq so a deployed family member could participate in the wedding.

Minnesota National Guard Soldier Spc. Keith Swanson of Headquarters and Headquarters Company, 2nd Battalion, 135th Infantry and his new spouse, Amanda, reached through a combat zone and across half the world to express their love and get married Feb. 14.

Amanda Watson walked down a different kind of aisle at the Inver Grove Heights Armory to use the National Guard's video teleconference system. Spc.

"The hardest part is saying goodbye to him again," said Amanda.

Swanson reported to the video teleconference connection in Al Asad Forward Operating Base, Iraq. The two said their vows to each other through the video connection and instead of kissing each other, they blew kisses through the screen.

"I figured that blowing a kiss is the best we can do for now," said Amanda.

Minnesota's approach to reintegration inspired a national model to bring troops "all the way home."

Reintegration

After discovering there was not an existing program, the Minnesota National Guard pioneered a new reintegration initiative to assist returning servicemembers.

- Beyond the Yellow Ribbon seminars are provided around the state to educate community leaders about the challenges of reintegration and what they can do to assist combat veterans and their families to successfully reintegrate back into the community.
- While Soldiers are deployed, "Family Reintegration Academies" are conducted to empower and resource families so they can address the effects of combat operational stress and become familiar with other reintegration issues and resources.
- Upon initial return from the combat zone, Soldiers attend a one-day session in order to get connected with service providers who can assist them in overcoming the challenges of reintegration and to get enrolled in the VA system.
- After the Soldiers are home for 30 days they are brought back together for their first reintegration event. During this one-day session, the Soldiers and families are reintroduced to service providers and attend workshops on marriage, reconnecting with children, single Soldier challenges and recovering from divorce.
- At 60 days after they return home, Soldiers and their families are then brought together again, this time to address negative behaviors related to combat stress. Specific workshops during this one day event include anger management, chemical abuse prevention, compulsive behavior prevention and drivers' safety.

Video, podcasts and other resources on reintegration are available at www.MinnesotaNationalGuard.org/btyr

In 2007, more than 4,700 Minnesota National Guard Soldiers and Airmen either returned from or mobilized to wartime deployments. Minnesota developed the first-in-the-nation program to ease their return.

Jan Donahue has found a way to turn the hardships of deployment into a creative and unique comedy act.

Her husband deployed to Afghanistan with the Minnesota Army National Guard from 2003 to 2004 and then to Iraq from 2005 to 2007. Their eldest son is also a Minnesota National Guard Soldier.

"My husband can take out a terrorist cell, but he can't take out the trash," said Jan Donahue, Army Guard Wife and Comedian.

Jan's performances appeal to both military and civilian audiences. She has performed at military bases throughout the Midwest, local comedy clubs and has been featured on national television.

- The final event occurs at 90 days after a unit returns. This unit-focused event includes a thorough Post Deployment Health Reassessment of combat veterans.
- For troops that deploy and return individually or cannot attend the events at 30, 60 and 90 days, the Minnesota National Guard hosts Monthly Individual Reintegration Training sessions. The content is identical to the unit training.

Soldiers and their families are greeted as they arrive at a 30-day reintegration event.

Beyond the Yellow Ribbon

While still a relatively new program, Beyond the Yellow Ribbon has yielded positive results. Officials from all levels of government and the military have visited the ongoing programs in order to expand the Minnesota model to a national prototype. Specific measurements of Beyond the Yellow Ribbon initiative include:

- Federal policy changed: The Secretary of Defense was persuaded to waive the 60-day “hands-off” policy.
- Federal and state funding secured: $3.5 million from a congressional add-on to the 2008 Defense Appropriations Act and another $1.5 million from the Minnesota Legislature.
- $23 million has been approved in Congress and is awaiting the signing of the 2008 National Defense Authorization Act.
- On Oct. 10, Gov. Pawlenty announced with TRICARE executives that mental health coverage would be expanded by way of embedding mental health professionals in National Guard armories throughout the state.
- 1,890 family members attended the Family Reintegration Academies and received information from federal, state, local and non-profit partners.
- Post-deployment assistance to Soldiers and families: Based on data from the 30- and 60-day reintegration events, federal, state, local and non-profit partners coordinated the following: 119 Soldiers have been employed through job fairs, 175 legal cases have been initiated; 3 Soldiers requested suicide prevention counseling; 320 Soldiers and families have received on-site counseling, 79% of all troops initiated some form of education enrollment; 285 Soldiers enrolled in motorcycle safety training, and 500 Soldiers took advantage of on-site registration for free deer hunting permits.
- TRICARE insurance coverage in Minnesota rose from 485 to 4,702 providers, and the number of hospital systems providing care increased from 4 to 27.

The Minnesota National Guard informed the public about the Beyond the Yellow Ribbon program through television, newspaper and radio interviews. Brig. Gen. Joe Kelly discusses the program on KTLK-FM.

Nearly 3,000 Soldiers returned from deployment in 2007.

With the leadership of Minnesota National Guard Chaplain (Lt. Col.) John Morris, the Minnesota National Guard devised the Beyond the Yellow Ribbon reintegration program. A network of federal, state, local and non-profit agencies assists at reintegration events to provide services and resources for service members and their families.

Some of the Minnesota National Guard Reintegration partners include:

- “Yellow Ribbon” Task Force
- The Department of Veterans Affairs and Veteran Centers
- Minnesota Departments of Natural Resources, Tourism, Revenue, Health and Human Services
- Minnesota State Colleges and Universities (MNSCU)
- University of Minnesota
- Minnesota Workforce (DEED)
- Minnesota State Patrol
- Minnesota County Veteran Service Officers
- Lutheran Social Services
- Sioux Trails Mental Health
- Lakeland Mental Health
- Minnesota Military Family Foundation
- Minnesota Veterans of Foreign Wars
- Minnesota National Assoc. of Insurance and Financial Advisors
- Military One Source
- TriWest
- Office of the Secretary of Defense
- Department of the Army, Benefits
- National Guard Bureau

Soldiers and Airmen are greeted by their loved ones at welcome home ceremonies. The ceremonies are only the first step in the troops’ long journey of reintegrating back into their homes, families and communities.

The Patriot Guard was on hand to honor and welcome home Minnesota Guard troops in 2007.

Communities

Minnesota National Guard Soldiers and Airmen are always ready when requested by local leaders to perform services and to be involved with the communities around the state. Servicemembers consistently remain at the forefront in their home towns and add value by the tasks they perform.

- Minnesota was awarded the 2007 Malcolm Baldrige-based Army National Guard Army Communities of Excellence Award. This was the 2nd time in three years that Minnesota has won the overall first prize.
- Guardsmen improved their education with more than $8 million in State Tuition Reimbursement payments and $25,000 in State Leadership Scholarships.
- Working with business leaders, the Minnesota Employer Support of the Guard and Reserve ombudsman reduced case completion time from an average of fifteen to five days.
- “Operation Military Kids” provided activities for more than 2,500 youths and delivered “Hidden Heroes” training to 47 communities.
- The Minnesota National Guard Marathon Team ran to its best finish in the 23-year history of the National Guard Bureau Marathon Championships. Fielding two teams, the eight runners placed 2nd and 11th nationally.
- The 34th Infantry Division Band was proud to honor all past and present Veterans by performing 76 concerts before 197,815 people in 2007.
- More than 6,100 individuals had an opportunity to visit Camp Ripley’s environmental classroom, bog walk or a black bear den.
- In 2007, Camp Ripley’s Army Compatible Use Buffer acquired $4.6 million of federal funding.

The St. Paul-based civic group “Serving Our Troops” shipped more than 11,000 steaks provided by local restaurateurs to Minnesota National Guard troops in Iraq. To make “Sunday dinner with family” complete, the group also provided a steak dinner for deployed Soldier’s families at the Roy Wilkins Arena in St. Paul and linked everyone via satellite.

The 148th Fighter Wing’s deployment to Iraq in 2007 was truly a family affair. Of the 250 Minnesota National Guard Airmen who fell in on the mission at Balad Airbase, 41 of them were blood relatives. In all, 19 families were represented in this tightly-knit unit.

“Being here together with my son is emotional for me ... To see him here doing such great things, I’m just so proud of him.” Senior Master Sgt. Stephen Vanderburg about his son.

The Airmen from the Duluth-based 148th Fighter Wing joined the famed Tuskegee Airmen of Balad’s 332nd Air Expeditionary Wing, while many ‘blue star’ tapestries were displayed in windows back home to symbolize their absence.

Duluth is one of Minnesota’s largest cities, with a population of more than 86,000. However, the hundreds of National Guard Airmen flying off to war created an impact that was heavily felt in their northeast Minnesota communities. The 148th Fighter Wing is the seventh largest employer in the area, having an annual economic impact of nearly $11 million.

Camp Ripley continues to expand ranges to develop the Combined Arms Collective Training Facility.

LOOKING AHEAD TO 2008

RETURNING HOME

THIS YEAR YOUR GUARD WILL WELCOME HOME MORE THAN TWO THOUSAND SOLDIERS AND AIRMEN FROM IRAQ, AFGHANISTAN, AND KOSOVO. WE WILL LEVERAGE THE EXPERIENCE WE GAINED LAST YEAR FROM OUR BEYOND THE YELLOW RIBBON PROGRAM TO REFINE OUR PROCESSES, AND, IN CONJUNCTION WITH OTHER STATE AGENCIES, WILL CONTINUE TO PLACE THE WELL BEING OF OUR SOLDIERS AND AIRMEN AS OUR FIRST PRIORITY.

GROWTH

CONTINUE INTO OUR SECOND DECADE OF CONSISTENT PERSONNEL GROWTH BY RECRUITING AND RETAINING SOLDIERS AND AIRMEN, REFLECTING THE SPIRIT OF SERVICE RESIDENT IN THE HEARTS OF OUR CITIZENS AND THE PERCEIVED VALUE OF OUR ORGANIZATION. THIS GROWTH WILL RESULT IN ENHANCING OUR ABILITY TO MEET THE REQUIREMENTS OF OUR COMMUNITIES, STATE AND NATION.

CONSTRUCTION

WE WILL CONTINUE TO ASSESS OUR REQUIREMENTS AND LAY GROUNDWORK FOR FUTURE FACILITIES TO MEET THE CHANGING NEEDS OF OUR ORGANIZATION. PLANNING WILL CONTINUE TO MEET THE NECESSARY GATES TO BEGIN A NEW JOINT FORCE HEADQUARTERS COMPLEX IN ARDEN HILLS. WE WILL WORK HARD TO SHAPE THE FUTURE WITH OUR SERVICE COMPONENT HEADQUARTERS TO ENSURE VIABLE MISSIONS AND EQUIPMENT FOR A RELEVANT MINNESOTA NATIONAL GUARD FOR DECADES TO COME.

DEFENSE

OUR FEDERAL MISSION, EXECUTING THE GLOBAL WAR ON TERROR, WILL CONTINUE THROUGHOUT THE COMING YEARS. WE WILL CONTINUE TO DEPLOY UNITS IN SUPPORT OF OPERATIONS ENDURING AND IRAQI FREEDOM, AS WELL AS OTHER MISSIONS WORLDWIDE. WE WILL CONTINUE TO SUPPORT THE DEFENSE OF THE CONTINENTAL UNITED STATES THROUGH OF AIR SOVEREIGNTY AND HOMELAND DEFENSE MISSIONS.

PARTNERSHIPS

IN 2008 WE WILL CONTINUE TO WORK WITH OUR PARTNER NATIONS (NORWAY, CROATIA AND CANADA) TO ENHANCE OUR RELATIONSHIPS AND WORK TOWARD COMMON OBJECTIVES, PARTICULARLY IN SUPPORT OF CROATIA'S ASPIRATIONS TOWARD MEMBERSHIP IN THE NORTH ATLANTIC TREATY ORGANIZATION. OUR STATE PARTNERSHIP PROGRAM WITH CROATIA WILL BEGIN TO SHIFT FOCUS FROM MILITARY-TO-MILITARY EVENTS TO MORE EMPHASIS ON CIVILIAN-TO-CIVILIAN EVENTS, AND WE WILL CONDUCT OUR FIRST TRI-LATERAL EVENTS WITH NORWAY AND CROATIA TOGETHER HERE IN MINNESOTA AND IN NORWAY.

REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION

IN ADDITION TO THE ONGOING REQUIREMENTS TO MOBILIZE AND DEPLOY YOUR GUARD WILL SUPPORT CIVIL AUTHORITIES AS IT ALWAYS HAS. THIS YEAR, WE WILL SUPPORT CIVIL AUTHORITIES IN ENSURING THE SAFE AND EFFECTIVE CONDUCT OF THE REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION TO BE HELD IN MINNESOTA IN SEPTEMBER.
