To the Citizens of Minnesota:

We know that the people of Minnesota count on the National Guard to serve our state and nation in times of difficulty, and we are committed to ensuring that we remain ready.

More than 22,000 Minnesota Guard members have served overseas since 9/11. Most have seen combat. Many have served three or four tours. What was a strategic reserve during the Cold War is today a fully operational component of the total force.

Recruits now join the Minnesota National Guard because they want to be part of the fight. They desire to serve their community, their state, their nation.

We have countless families to thank for supporting their sons, daughters, mothers and fathers as they serve. Employers of deployed Soldiers and Airman also deserve our state and nation's gratitude. Most of all, we have Guard members themselves to salute. They have left their families at home, put their careers on hold and risked their lives for their country.

On a national level, change is coming. After eight years in Afghanistan and Iraq, we're finding that the duration of these conflicts are challenging our military. Our economy will force our national leaders to make some tough choices. To sustain the Minnesota National Guard long into the future and continue to be a national leader, we are committed to build upon the solid foundation already in place.

To the citizens of Minnesota, you have our word that the Citizen Soldiers and Airmen of the National Guard are on call and we will respond in the future as we have done in the past.

To the Minnesota National Guard:

As my term as Governor comes to an end, the First Lady and I want to thank you for your dedication and service to our state and country. It has been one of the great honors of my life to be Governor and the Commander-in-Chief of the Minnesota National Guard.

By nearly every measure, you are the best of the best and that's not just a proud Governor speaking, you have consistently proven it both here at home and abroad. Your service to our state and nation has come at a historic time for our country and we are so grateful for you and your family's dedication and continued sacrifice to protect our freedoms.

Please know that you are heroes and we have cherished our time getting to know you and seeing what amazing people we have as our Citizen Soldiers and Airmen. Thank you and God Bless!

2011 Priorities

13,663 Airmen and Soldiers like this.

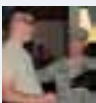

Provide a competent, ready force for our state and nation.

We must maintain our role as a full spectrum force. From catastrophic events at home to deployments abroad, the Guard must continue to seamlessly integrate with the broader force. We will be able to leverage our national Department of Defense and interagency relationships built over many successful deployments. In Minnesota, we must ensure the Guard is prepared to carry out our homeland defense and disaster response mission. With members in nearly every Minnesota zip code, we are our military's first responders.

We must continue to work toward an optimal force structure.

We'll do this by striving to maintain the significant investment in readiness made over the last seven years. Guard units must be trained, equipped and ready for deployments.

We must advance our environmentally sustainable infrastructure with regards to our facilities and equipment statewide.

Continue to set the standard with our environmental initiatives and be stewards of our natural resources.

Continue to grow, coordinate and communicate our "Beyond the Yellow Ribbon" program.

When Guard units do deploy, we need to continue to take care of their families. Spouses of deployed Guard members are far from a community of other families who share in the burden of protecting our nation. Serving these geographically dispersed families is our first priority.

The Minnesota National Guard must continue to diversify our military force.

We are committed to fostering an environment that truly represents the demographics of the communities in which we serve. We must have leaders that reflect those who we lead and serve.

Develop capacity to combat the emerging cyber warfare threat.

Ensure the Minnesota National Guard is prepared to defend our nation against the next threat.

1st Brigade Combat Team

The Minnesota Army National Guard's Bloomington-based 1st Brigade Combat Team, 34th Infantry Division, was alerted to prepare for a deployment in support of Operation New Dawn. The 1st Brigade Commander Col. Eric Kerska, who is also a battalion chief in the Rochester Fire Department, formally announced the alert after a fire department training exercise. In preparing for the deployment, the 1/34th BCT participated in the Army National Guard Exportable Combat Training Capability at Camp Ripley in August. The training brought the most up-to-date, theater-specific training to mobilizing Army National Guard units. The brigade conducted several state missions, to include assisting law enforcement agencies after deadly tornados hit the Wadena area in June and providing flood fight support in the Red River Valley in March and September.

Minnesota formed a Territorial Enrolled Militia in 1850, but it only existed on paper until April 1856 when the first uniformed, volunteer company was formed in St. Paul.

1861-1865 [\[edit\]](#)
When Civil War broke out in April 1861, volunteers from Minnesota's militia formed a nucleus for the first three companies of the First Minnesota Volunteer Infantry Regiment. The "First Minnesota" is officially recognized as the senior such regiment in the Union Army because Alexander Ramsey was the first governor to offer state troops to President Lincoln. The regiment went on to serve with distinction in the Army of the Potomac and became legend as a result of its gallant charge at Gettysburg on July 2, 1863. By the war's end Minnesota organized and recruited volunteers for 11 infantry regiments, two cavalry regiments, a heavy artillery regiment, three light artillery batteries and two sharpshooter companies, totaling 22,000 men.

1916-1940 [\[edit\]](#)
In July 1916, because of border raids conducted by Pancho Villa and the courting of an unstable Mexican government by Germany, President Woodrow Wilson used his new legal authority to mobilize the nation's entire National Guard for patrol duty on the U.S.- Mexican border. Minnesota's 109th Observation Squadron became the first federally-recognized air unit in the National Guard in January 1921. In June 1931, a new field training site was opened to troops at Camp Ripley north of Little Falls.

1941-1945 [\[edit\]](#)
The 34th Infantry Division became the first American Division to ship to Europe in February 1942. It fought through North Africa (where men of Minnesota's 175th Field Artillery fired the first American shells against the Nazis), and Italy. Brainerd's tank company fought the Japanese and endured the Bataan Death March. The 109th Observation Squadron ended up in Europe, where it initially flew Mark V "Spitfires" with the Royal Air Force during World War II. They later flew reconnaissance missions with P-51 "Mustangs." The Minnesota National Guard became part of a newly-organized 47th "Viking" Infantry Division following World War II, and its airmen became part of a new Air National Guard.

DIVARTY Remembered

There would be many more re-organizations and relocations over the years, but 1917, is the year that the 125th Field Artillery Regiment was officially born. During World War II, they continued making history when the unit left for North Africa in December 1942. The 125th FA ended up firing over 250,000 rounds of artillery ammunition in 480 days of combat, which was more than any other battalion. Col. Delgehausen, who commanded DIVARTY from October 1985 to October 1987, put it best. "Being in the Minnesota National Guard was ...

The war was over by April 1991, and soon Minnesota's troops headed home.

Immediately after the attack on New York City and Washington, D.C., Minnesota Air National Guard F-16 Fighter Jets from the 148th Fighter Wing were providing combat air patrols over key locations. Troops mobilized to ensure that Minnesota airports were safeguarded. Minnesota National Guard troops executed the Bosnia Security Force (SFOR-14) mission 2003-04 and the Kosovo Force (KFOR-5) mission in 2004. More than 22,000 Minnesota Army and Air National Guard Servicemembers have served since 9/11, including the 1st Brigade Combat Team's epic 22-month tour in 2005-07, and the 2009-10 34th Red Bull Infantry Division's Command and Control of nine of Iraq's eighteen provinces. Current operations have troops deployed for Operation Noble Eagle (Homeland Security); Operation Enduring Freedom (Afghanistan); and Operation Iraqi Freedom (Iraq).

"BY, WITH, and THROUGH" print by Jody Harmon

By the Iraqis, With our Assistance, and Through their Government.

This print depicts American Soldiers at a key leader engagement with Iraqi Soldiers and the Iraqi Police. This meeting is taking place "Outside the City" of Basra, Iraq. The movement of American Soldiers to positions outside of all major cities took place just prior to the arrival of the 34th Infantry Division. To enter the cities, American troops had to be with or supporting Iraqi forces. The skyline of Basra in the background is punctuated by the al-Moosawi Mosque's beautiful dome. Also visible is the ever present burn-off pipes with perpetual flames on top. The billboard was a product of the 34th Division's Information Operations cell. It states: "Register to vote-Vote for the future of Iraq". Also notable are the ever present rotary wing aircraft, feral dogs, and large quantities of trash.

With lineage derived from the Minnesota Regiments of Civil War fame, the brave Red Bulls, who fought their way from Algeria through Tunisia and up the Italian peninsula during World War II, amassing more days of front line combat than any other US division, answered the Nation's call once again. On February 10, 2009, the Division began the mobilization of 1,039 Soldiers to serve a year's mission for Operation Iraqi Freedom. The 34th "Red Bull" Infantry Division, headquartered at Contingency Operating Base Basra, Iraq, had operational control over half of all of Iraq's provinces and commanded U.S. Army, Army Reserve, National Guard, Joint and Coalition units. The Division spent ten months conducting full spectrum operations, alongside Iraqi Army units, providing security and stability for a burgeoning democracy. The Red Bulls oversaw the training and enhancement of Iraqi Security Forces including Iraqi Army, Border, and Police units. The Red Bulls aided community leaders as Iraqis developed and improved the civil capacity of southern Iraq by building market centers and schools, by encouraging free enterprise, by improving the water treatment facilities and infrastructure, and by preparing for the 2010 general elections. The 34th Infantry Division led the theater redeployment process as the United States prepared to withdraw its forces and equipment from the country. From Gettysburg, Pennsylvania to Salerno, Italy to Basra, Iraq, the 34th Infantry Division continues to rise to the challenge whenever our nation calls its warriors to the frontline.

133rd Airlift Wing assists with Pakistan flood relief

Airmen and aircraft from the Minnesota Air National Guard provided humanitarian support to flood ravaged Pakistan. The first American military aircraft to fly into Pakistan with assistance was from the Minnesota Air National Guard.

Lt. Col. Andy Burda, 774th Expeditionary Airlift Squadron Deputy of Operations Our crews are completely immersed in the war effort and to have them switch gears in such a way is a credit to their professionalism and to their common devotion to what makes America great, that we always will come to the aid of those in need, even while engaged in combat operations.

Peggy Henrich Kology Way to go guys!

Members of the 133rd Airlift Wing return from Afghanistan

Seventy-six Airmen from the 133rd Airlift Wing returned from a two-month deployment to Afghanistan in support of Operation Enduring Freedom. The returning Airmen deployed in early July aboard one of the Wing's eight C-130 "Hercules" aircraft. During their stay the deployed aircraft flew more than 450 sorties, hauling more than 5,700 passengers and delivering nearly 1,400 tons of critical cargo.

133rd Airlift Wing supports Haitian earthquake relief

Fifty-three Airmen from the Minnesota Air National Guard's 133rd Airlift Wing returned safely January 30, 2010, from a two week deployment to Puerto Rico where they flew 39 sorties in support of Operation Unified Response.

During the deployment, the C-130 crews flew relief missions into Haiti and the Dominican Republic, hauling passengers and much needed water, equipment and other critical supplies.

Lt. Col. Jim Bixby, Commander This was a unique and challenging deployment.

Col. Penny Dieryck, Mission Support Group Commander His ability as a Security Forces person is phenomenal. This achievement is remarkable in the fact that there are approximately 8,000 Security Forces personnel in the Air National Guard and he was selected as the top Senior NCO of all those personnel.

Red Bulls return home

Twelve-hundred Soldiers from the 34th Red Bull Infantry Division were deployed in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom and stationed at Basra, Iraq. They returned this spring and as a team, the Red Bulls accomplished the following objectives: they left Iraq with a more capable security force; the Government of Iraq increased their ability to provide for the well-being of Iraqi citizens; and they set the conditions for a successful drawdown of U.S. military forces from Iraq.

Minnesota National Guard Did you know that more than 1,200 Citizen-Soldiers representing 273 Minnesota Communities and 14 states deployed with the Red Bulls? Four Minnesota National Guard units deployed with the 34th Infantry Division from the communities of Rosemount, Inver Grove Heights, Faribault and Stillwater.

Minnesota Guard trains with its Croatian State Partnership Program counterparts

This National Guard Bureau sponsored program partners a state's National Guard with a single country or region in support of U.S. Government policies. The Minnesota National Guard's partner is the Republic of Croatia. The State Partnership Program directly supports the broad national interests and security cooperation goals of the United States by engaging partner nations via military, socio-political, and economic conduits at the local, state and national levels. The program's public diplomacy effectiveness lies in its ability to leverage the full breadth and depth of U.S. defense and interagency capabilities from within the state-country relationship. The exercise objectives are to train, exercise and promote the interoperability of Croatian armed forces and the Minnesota National Guard using NATO standards set inside Peace Support Operation scenario through a live exercise.

 Minnesota National Guard is thankful for the support of our congressional delegation and appreciates their efforts in advancing the causes to increase the readiness and relevance of the Guard. Their efforts to advocate for the Guard were exceptional as exemplified by the efforts in solving the Post-Deployment Mobilization Respite Absence Program issue.

The city of Stillwater is one step closer to making a new combined National Guard Armory and city fire station a reality.

Stillwater leaders held a workshop to discuss the purchase of land for a new multi-million dollar complex that may become home to the Minnesota Army National Guard's 1st Brigade Combat Team, which is currently stationed in Bloomington.

The site would also be home to a more centrally located fire station for the city. A new fire hall will improve response times for the fire department to Stillwater's outlying areas.

The Army wants to have the new Stillwater armory constructed by the spring of 2015.

Maj. Gen. Richard C. Nash, Adjutant General MN National Guard As I begin my tenure as Adjutant General, I'd like to take a moment and thank my predecessor, Brevet Lieutenant General Larry Shellito. General Shellito has been a mentor of mine throughout my career, and all of Minnesota owes him a debt of gratitude.

In addition to the combat deployments, the Minnesota National Guard has responded 23 separate times to state active duty missions between 2003 and today. Everything from fires, floods, homeland security and missing person searches to blizzards – Major General Shellito ensured that the Guard was ready to help the citizens of Minnesota when called upon to serve. I am especially proud of General Shellito's contributions to the "Beyond the Yellow Ribbon" program. This innovative approach to ensuring that Minnesota Soldiers, Airmen, Sailors, Marines and Coastguardsmen come "all the way home" has modeled for the nation how to best treat our Servicemembers and their families.

Thanks, Lt. Gen. Larry Shellito. You have done a great job as Adjutant General – our state thanks you for your service.

Lt. Gen. Larry W. Shellito (Ret) I'm thankful for the support of the citizens of Minnesota, Governor Pawlenty, and First Lady Mary Pawlenty, during my time leading the Minnesota National Guard. My focus for my remaining term of service is on maintaining the readiness that our fellow citizens have come to expect of the Minnesota National Guard and ensuring that our nation-leading "Beyond the Yellow Ribbon" program is well-positioned for a sustainable future. I am extremely proud of the Minnesota National Guard and am honored to have had the chance to serve.

Governor Tim Pawlenty General Shellito has been a thoughtful, positive and inspiring leader for the Minnesota National Guard. During the past seven years, our Guard Soldiers, Airmen, and their families have served with distinction here in Minnesota and around the world. General Shellito's leadership has been a critical part of building our Guard's outstanding reputation and our nation-leading programs to support Guard members when they return from deployments. On behalf of a grateful state, we thank General Shellito for his exemplary service.
