No problem. Total Value Added was $268 billion in 2009.

Hi Henry,

In reviewing the Socioeconomic section of the NorthMet SDEIS, you had indicated that you could, relatively easily, come up with a statewide Value Added figure that we could use for comparison in the document (right now, we compare the various economic effects to the state budget, which I agree is an apples-to-oranges comparison).

Is that something you can still provide?

Thanks,
