Governor Dayton's bonding proposal is focused on making the kind of long term investments proven to create jobs. The bill would invest $1.4 billion in infrastructure projects statewide, creating more than 39,000 Minnesota jobs. This new jobs bill would help address many of the state's critical infrastructure needs, including essential water infrastructure, while strengthening Minnesota's economy and putting thousands of people to work.

The proposal balances the needs of the state, with 35 percent of projects in Greater Minnesota, 35 percent in the twin cities, and 30 percent having impacts statewide.
