From the Commissioner

Greetings from the Minnesota Department of Agriculture:

Thank you for requesting or picking-up this directory, our annual statewide guide to direct from the farm Minnesota Grown products. We're happy to help you find some of the freshest, highest quality food and ornamental products available anywhere.

This directory has grown significantly since our first edition in 1981, spurred by an increasing number of savvy consumers like you. We've added a popular online version at www.minnesotagrown.com, the directory has expanded to include over 400 grower listings, and distribution of the print version has grown to 200,000 copies.

Whether you're looking for farm fresh produce, hardy ornamental products, or a fun family outing to a listed farm, we think you'll agree that the products and services offered represent the best of Minnesota.

Thank you for your patronage on behalf of the listed farms and markets.

Sincerely,

Gene Hugoson
Commissioner

It takes more than fertile soil to succeed in agriculture. At the Agricultural Utilization Research Institute (AURI), our mission is to help improve the economy of rural Minnesota through the development of new uses and new markets for Minnesota's agricultural commodities. We do this by offering unique services and programs available to businesses, entrepreneurs and cooperatives throughout the state.

AURI services include technical assistance for needs such as new product development, process refinement, technology transfer and feasibility testing. We also provide business assistance for things like market assessments and business planning. Nearly all AURI services are provided at no cost.

Whether it's a new food or industrial product, fertilizer or building material, AURI has the expertise and capabilities to help. We've already assisted hundreds of Minnesota companies in their ventures.
